DROUGHT CONFAB IN IOWA BRINGS 'DELICATE' TASK

Efforts Made to Keep Discussion Out Of Political Race

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 2 — (UP) — The meeting of President Roosevelt and Gov. Alf M. Landon beneath the gilded dome of the Iowa state capital tomorrow may provide one of the most delicate tasks of the presidential campaign for Democratic and Republican boards of strategy.

Converging on Des Moines for a strictly "non-political" conference on drought relief, the major party presidential nominees must nevertheless face the fact that the nation will witness their meeting against a background crammed with potential political dynamite.

Out of Politics

Both candidates have laid emphasis on their desire to keep the vital problem of drought measures out of presidential campaign politics. Yet both will guard carefully against the possibility of charges they are making political capital of a crisis which has drastically affected a huge portion of the nation's agricultural belt.

The precautions taken by strategists of both parties have promised one of the most unusual history in American political history.

President Roosevelt's special train will arrive in the Iowa capital late Thursday forenoon. In line with his routine on the recent survey of the drought areas, the president will motor from his train to the state capital for a luncheon to which Gov. Clyde Herring has invited the governors and senators of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

But at the capitol, scene of the conference, the public will be

Light Rate Controversy to Remain Status Quo

Council will hear Mayor W. J. Graham's report Wednesday evening on his recent two-hour parking experiment, but whether it will pass an ordinance at the meeting making the regulation a law remained uncertain.

Several councilmen expressed themselves Wednesday as in favor of the regulation. One believed it would be foolish to pass an ordinance until the traffic problem had been given further study. He explained one-hour parking may be better than a two hour regulation.

Matter on Table

Discussions at previous council meetings have always resulted in the matter being tabled.

The new light rate ordinance was not expected to come up at the inge and then referred to council meeting. It was given two readings as a committee for recommendations. No committee meetings have been held and from all indications the city dads expect to wait and see what other cities, offered the same rates, recommend.

Lyman E. Jones, 64, widely known retired Williamsport mail carrier, died unexpectedly at his home in that village Tuesday evening. He had been under the care of a physician for two weeks, but his condition was not considered serious.

Police Hunt Murderer Of Y.W.C.A. Executive

Strands of Brown Hair, Clutched in Hand of Woman, Provide Clue to Slayer

LA JOLLA, Cal., Sept. 2 — (UP) — A thick-set man with a protruding lip was sought by police today as the sex-mad slayer of Miss Ruth Muir, 35, Y. W. C. A. executive whose body was found in the swank La Jolla beach area.

A few strands of brown hair found clutched in the hand of the murdered daughter of a San Antonio, Tex., banker will identify the slayer if he is found, police believed.

Two neighbors of the parents of Miss Muir, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Muir, said that while walking along the ocean front Monday night they saw her sitting on a seaside bench. Near her, they said, was a heavy-set man with a protruding lip.

Crowd Observed

Lieut.-Com. Matt Calhoun, U. S. navy, said he had observed a man of the same description prowling in the vicinity for three nights.

Police questioned seven persons in succession last night after Chief of Police George Sears ordered a round-up of men known or believed to have been involved in morals offenses.

Chief Sears said that the murderer, if he is apprehended soon, would have scratches on his face. Blood was found under Miss Muir's fingernails which, with the strands of hair, indicated that she struggled before her skull was dashed in.

The hairs and matter removed from under Miss Muir's nails were sent to a laboratory for analysis.

The slaying again brought fears to residents of San Diego county of a repetition of the gruesome series of girl-murders, all unsolved, which took seven lives between 1931 and 1934.

The neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Rogers, last persons save the slayer to see Miss Muir alive, said they first saw her reading on the porch of her parents' beach home at 9 p. m. Monday night. An hour later they returned and she was sitting on the beach.

RICHMAN READY TO FLY OCEAN

Entertainer and Pilot Expect To Take Air During Afternoon

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 — (UP) — Dick Merrill and Harry Richman announced today they would take off this afternoon on their round-trip flight to London. They hoped to leave Floyd Bennett field between 2 and 3 p. m., E. S. T.

Merrill, veteran transport pilot, and Richman, night club entertainer and owner of the big monoplane "Lady Peace," have postponed the flight several times because of unfavorable weather. They notified the field manager, Kenneth Behr, today that weather reports were good, and that they intended to take-off.

They plan to fly the north Atlantic route up the coast to Newfoundland and across to Ireland.

The $95,000 Vulture monoplane is powered with a 1,000 horsepower motor whose design was said to have been an army secret during the last year. Its wings are packed with thousands of pingpong balls to give buoyancy should the plane be forced down in the ocean.

Rebels Renew Offense Against City of Iron

BY UNITED PRESS

The Spanish picture continues today to be one of death and less destruction in almost all parts of the peninsula.

Both sides were at death grips. Neither could claim the advantage. The loyalists at Iron, although they were in desperate straits held out with Bullock tanks and the rebels were unable to although they poured a devastating barrage of artillery shells and airplanes into the city.

The loyalists threatened a retaliatory bombardment of the city that they had 20 airplanes, more than the rebel air force, for bombing raids. They said their uncompromising attitude, the insurgents by executing unknown number of hostages in the city.

Madrid Bombed Again

Madrid was bombed again for the fourth time. The sound of raid were recorded in the office of the United Press, open telephone line from the city. The extent of the damage was reported.

The loyalist city of Madrid on the south coast also was again by the rebels and the government said many were wounded. An important rebel achievement was the bombing of the Hispania automobile plant at Alcala, near Madrid, which set afire. The government has using the plant for the manufacture of airplane engines and supplies. Whether the plant was put out of commission was not known.

The fighting was general over Madrid, in the Toledo region. With the rebels checked in the Guadarrama mountains north of the city, the chief menace to the capital appeared to be in that direction.

JAPAN TO BUILD NEW SUB FLEET TO SURPASS U. S.

LONDON, Sept. 2 — (UP) — The Japanese embassy delivered a note to the foreign office today in effect announcing Japan's intention of possessing a submarine fleet approximately 30 per cent larger than either that of the United States or Great Britain, as from the end of this year.

The decision replaces the submarine parity among the three powers established by the 1930 London naval treaty.

The British government, it is understood, now is considering the question of whether Japan's retention of submarines beyond its treaty limit of 52,700 tons would constitute a violation of the London pact.

British sources expected the United States to protest the Japanese decision.

AT THE CLIFTONA

If Robert Taylor hadn't "flunked" in his chemistry examinations at college he would have been a young surgeon instead of a screen player.

Yet, strange fate, Taylor is a surgeon in his first featured screen role in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Society Doctor," showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Cliftona theatre.

"My father was a physician," says Taylor, "and it seemed an accepted fact in the family that I, too, was destined for a medical profession."

"At Pomona College, in California, I started a medical course and got deeply interested in the subject. The family was proud that I had elected to carry on the profession and during my first year at college I could visualize myself in surgeon's gowns and with a fine medical practice."

The saddest words of tongue or pen are these: "Not much change in temperature."

DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN are alert to more than events in public affairs. They seek constantly — and with uncanny success — to discover what underlies events. And what they discover they write — crisply, vividly, impartially, unreservedly — in The Washington Merry-Go-Round.

Today as never before in many decades, what the government is doing is of personal concern to every citizen. Today there is in full swing a political battle destined to take its place as one of the hardest-fought and fateful in consequence this country has seen. In that battle, the fortunes of everyone are involved. Everyone wants to know how its tide is flowing, and to understand why. Everyone can know by following The Washington Merry-Go-Round —

Q. Do I have to Take An Examination?

A. The registrar may, at his discretion, waive an actual examination for all operators over 18 years of age, who furnish satisfactory evidence that they have previously operated a motor vehicle in a satisfactory manner over a period of not less than one year. Any person having any apparent physical or mental defects may, at the discretion of the registrar be compelled to take an actual examination.

Q. What Is the Minimum Age Limit?

A. There is no minimum age limit for an operator's license. The only requirement being that in case of a minor, either the father of the applicant or person having custody of such minor must sign the application. Q. What Will the License or Certified Duplicate Cost?

A. Total fee for issuing an operator's or certified duplicate is 40c, with no additional charge for an examination if one is required. In case of learner's permit no charge will be made. In case of a chauffeur's license an additional 50c will be charged for an identifying chauffeur's badge.

of not more than 30 days in any one year.

Q. Can Everyone Obtain a License?

A. Neither an operator's or chauffeur's license can be issued to the following:

3. A person who has been adjudged insane or feeble-minded, unless he has been declared to be competent by judicial decree.

Q. Who May Ask to See My License and Must I Carry It With Me While Driving?

A. Each statement on the application is made a material statement and any person intentionally giving incorrect information is guilty of perjury.

Q. How Does a Beginner Qualify for a License?

A. The registrar or a deputy registrar on receiving an application may issue a temporary instruction permit entitling the applicant while having such permit in his immediate possession to drive upon the highways when accompanied by a licensed operator or chauffeur, actually occupying a seat beside the driver. At the expiration of such instruction permit, the permit holder shall be eligible for examination.

Q. Who Will Give the Examination and on What Subjects?

DESERTED

WHILE Spain crumbles before the very eyes of her embattled children, brother facing brother in a dreadful civil war, there comes the final ironic touch of betrayal. With a rapacity that is almost incredible the strong nations of Europe have permitted, nay, encouraged these two factions to kill each other; encouraged them to despoil their beloved and historic land; encouraged them to weaken their forces, to eliminate one another in a desperate game of cancellation so that when the dead have outnumbered the living, when only the sun moves, these nations will walk in and decide what they will do with the remainder, just as they permitted Benito Mussolini to walk into Ethiopia and take over a generous slice of Africa.

The betrayal is all too clear to Chancellor Prieto of the Spanish Loyalist Government. Besieged in the capital of Madrid and not knowing whether the next day will be his last on earth, the courageous leader points the accusing finger at those responsible nations and there is none to deny his words. "What help has France and Great Britain given us in our direct hour?" he asked. "None at all, while Germany, Italy and Portugal are providing our rebel enemies with all the materials they want."

The words are fraught with all the bitterness of humanity. Here is a people's government, attempting to stem the vicious tide of Fascism that has no place in a free government, and callously, deliberately, viciously the governments of Germany and of Italy and of Portugal pave the way for their evil intentions. Life meant little to Chancellor Prieto as long as his ideals were realized. What can it mean to him now when he and his Government have been so brutally betrayed?

MAN WITHOUT A PARTY

TWO in politics, says a discerning observer, is a movement. Three's a coalition; but one, of course is Borah. True enough, but one may also be Senator Norris, of Nebraska, who has at last found his proper niche in the scheme of politics.

Senator Norris, yielding to demands and importunities, has decided to run again for the United States Senate, not as a Republican and not as a Democrat. Both of the major parties have candidates in the field, so the venerable senator from Nebraska will run without political designation, simply as Senator Norris.

This, in fact, should be enough. Senator Norris has never been much of a Republican, and has not even pretended to be a Democrat. He is and has been throughout his long political career a free spirit, unrestrained by partisan ties and untrammelled by any excess of party loyalty.

DENIALS FAIL TO QUELL FIRE

WASHINGTON—There is a lot of fire behind the smoke regarding the President's reported plans to hold a large-scale peace conference if re-elected, despite the indirect denials of the State Department.

Actually the President has discussed the idea with some of his closest advisers. He hasn't decided the thing one way or the other. But he is considering it very, very carefully.

He is not any too optimistic regarding the outcome of such a conference. All similar conferences have failed in the past. But three factors incline Roosevelt toward calling it—if re-elected.

1.—Never before have the leaders of Europe been so worried about war, and the people of Europe so anxious to prevent it. The crisis over the Spanish revolt gave them a glimpse of the war ghost just around the corner.

2.—Hitherto France has opposed a conciliation with Germany. This was always the great stumbling block. Now Premier Blum favors it.

3.—If such a conference fails, the United States will have made one final effort and thereafter will have every excuse for more complete isolation.

At any rate, the real secret behind Ambassador Bullitt's transfer from Moscow to Paris is to sound out the leaders of Europe, informally, regarding such a conference. Bullitt speaks the language of diplomacy, is a close friend of the President and was the man who handled the preliminaries to Roosevelt's Washington conversations in May, 1933.

WPAIRPORTS

If you scratch below the popularity of the Works Progress Administration with the aviation industry, you will discover a very good reason: WPA has built more airports in the USA than there are airplanes travelling on regularly scheduled routes.

And if you scratch below the reason for these airports you will find another very good reason: The inspiration of women aviators.

On the payroll of WPA are four noted women aviators—Phoebe Omlie, Louise Thaden, Helen McCloskey, and Blanche Noyes, and their job is to hop about the country as a flying squadron of airport boosters.

Working in cooperation with Roper's Air Commerce Bureau, the aviatrixes fly from community to community urging local officials to cooperate with WPA in building and improving airports.

Harry Hopkins has other reasons behind this: Namely, that airport improvement employs a larger amount of labor in proportion to cost of material than most types of construction; also the expected growth of aviation.

But the net result is that WPA has spent $40,000,000 for new and improved airports during the past year, an additional $31,000,000 being advanced by local communities. This has built or improved 506 flying fields.

In comparison, only 356 of the 7,371 airplanes licensed by the Commerce Department are flown on regular air routes. Their value is only $12,500,000.

CHAPTER 38

ON THE table in her hot, dusty sitting room, Gay found a box of flowers, delivered during the afternoon. Gay opened the box now, with a faint exclamation of delight at the loveliness of the offering. Pure white, long-stemmed roses, exquisitely fragrant. She read the card: "To that charming young lady, Gay Elwell, with Mr. Scott's compliments." Then commenced putting the flowers in water. Two vases were soon filled, and there were still more than a dozen roses to be disposed of.

She went out to the kitchenette for another vase, but stopped on the threshold with a cry of dismay.

Jean had either forgotten to straighten things up, or else had overslept and been in too great a hurry. Whatever the reason, she'd certainly left the kitchenette in a hideous mess.

Gay stood there, looking around. Dirty dishes everywhere. Flies drowning in a half-empty coffee cup. Two pairs of Jean's stockings hanging forlornly from a clothes line, strung up back of the gas stove. And all through the hot, stuffy little room, the stale odor of hamburger and onions which Jean had fried for dinner.

"Oo-oo!" Gay's nose wrinkled in disgust. "I'd better come down to earth, and do some work around here," she scolded herself, sharply. "Maybe I'm going to marry the Scott millions, and maybe not—but in the meantime I've got to wash these dishes and scrub the kitchen floor!"

She slid a gingham apron over her dress, pulled her hair into a tight knot and tied a cloth over it, and set to work. Gay was scrupulously clean about herself and her surroundings; dirt and untidiness made her feel positively sick.

Now, in spite of the hate and her own weariness after a trying day at the club, she attacked the job before her with speed and efficiency.

She had finished the dishes, and was scouring a frying pan with furious energy, when she heard a voice.

"Hello, Beautiful! Working hard?"

She looked up to see Breck Carter lounging in the doorway of the kitchenette. She was so taken by surprise, so completely overwhelmed by his sudden appearance, that she could only gasp. Then, before speech came, she felt a wave of horrified embarrassment. What she looked like! And what the flat looked like! She had never been so utterly mortified in all her life.

She stormed. "What are you doing here? You might at least have let me know you were coming—or rung the door bell!"

He looked so cool, so immaculate, so carelessly sure of himself. While she... Gay knew that grease and scouring powder had splattered onto her face. The gingham apron was faded, none too clean. And that wretched rag she'd tied over her hair! She could have murdered Breck very gladly.

"Don't get cross, now, honey," he drawled. "It's not my fault. Your landlady told me to go right on up. I knocked, before I came into your flat. Reckon you didn't hear me."

He strolled into the disordered living room, and stared about him. "My sainted aunt! So this is how check girls live, when they're not checking hats!"

Gay's anger was at white heat. But the patronage, the snobbery, in Breck's voice restored her self-control, and she decided instantly to carry off the situation as well as she could. Not Breck, nor any other man, could shame her. After all, it wasn't her fault that she was poor, and shabby. She wasn't a Peggy Pennell, with a rich father to provide a beautiful home, and servants to keep it neat and attractive.

Gay felt a wave of horrified embarrassment.

"Well, you've seen the worst," she laughed. "So there'd be no point in putting you out. Sit down, Breck. You'll just have to excuse the looks of things. I've been working all day, and didn't have a chance to do the family house-cleaning till now."

Breck seated himself on the couch, shoving Jean's movie magazines and bag of gum drops out of his way. "Don't apologize. It's you I came to see, not your apartment."

Gay hurried to the bathroom, tore the dust-cloth from her hair, washed and powdered a little, all in the space of a few moments. She returned to the living room and sat down in the chair Breck pulled forward for her.

"Whatever made you think of calling on me? Why didn't you telephone, first?"

He told her he'd been at Peggy's for dinner. Several other guests were there: stodgy, middle-aged friends of Mr. Pennell's. They were to play contract later, and he simply couldn't stand the boredom of a long, hot evening at cards. So he'd pretended to recall an engagement with Ad—business, of course—and made his escape.

"I intended driving out to Spruce Lake for a swim. Then, passing your street, I thought I'd take a chance and see if you were home."

I've been trying to get in touch with you for a week—"

"What for?"

"I want to be nice to you. Take you out to dinner—Lord, Gay, you're getting ritz! What's come over you? I thought you liked me!"

"If you really meant that, Breck, come over here on the couch," he suggested.

Gay looked at him without answering. Handsome, flippant, conceited Breck! So pleased with himself, so spoiled by Peggy's too-obvious worship. And so sure he could get a little electric girl into his arms at the first invitation. Well, he had a slight surprise coming to him, Gay thought, maliciously. The little check girl wasn't quite as easy to get, as he seemed to believe!

"Come on over," Breck repeated. "I want you, honey!"

"That's very nice," Gay thanked him. "But it's a little too warm for petting. I'm not having any tonight, if you don't mind."

There was a brief silence. Outside in the noisy street, children screamed at their play, trucks rumbled past, and some impatient motorist honked a horn with maddening persistence. The long summer twilight had faded into darkness. Gay rose from her chair and switched on the electric light, feeling as she did so a fresh stab of shame at the disorder of the room.

But Breck wasn't looking at the room, now. His eyes were fixed on her with a pensive gaze.

"Are you trying to be nasty?" he asked. "I don't get you. Ad told me once that you're playing some sort of game, but I didn't believe him. I've always liked you, Gay, and I'm trying to be as nice to you as I know how. For Pete's sake, don't go sarcastic. I get more than enough of that from Peggy."

"I want to take you out and have a little talk. Let's go, right now. I have guest privileges at Spruce Lake Country club, and we'll have a moonlight swim together. Get your suit and let's shove off!"

Gay remained in her chair. "Not tonight, Breck."

"Then how about tomorrow night?"

She shook her head. "It's sweet of you to ask me, and I honestly appreciate it. But I can't go tomorrow, either. I have an engagement with Marian Wilson and the doctor for Sunday night."

Breck frowned. "Aren't you the popular young thing! It gives me a big laugh, the way people date you up. Nice people, too! That's the funniest part of it!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Dentistry Now Branch of Science of Healing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE MOST important convention held in this country this year was that of the American Medical Association in May. The next most important was that of the American Dental Association last month. The two conventions that came between—the Republican and Democratic—are relatively of little importance to the welfare and happiness of the average man, woman or child.

Increasingly during the past several years dentistry has been becoming a part of general science. It was not so long ago that the dentist was simply an artisan—and often a very bad one—because, although he might be skillful in the very intricate processes which he had to learn, he frequently forgot that he was dealing with living tissue that would not stand any amount of foreign bodies driven into it. And many is the bridge and crown and cap that has come off to reveal sources of long continued systemic poisoning beneath.

The change that has occurred was summed up in the remarks of the retiring president, Dr. Winter of St. Louis, who pointed out that only a hundred years ago dentists were drawn from the ranks of the artisans, goldsmiths, blacksmiths and barbers; and of Dr. Miner of Boston, the new president, that "Not until diagnosis becomes the foundation on which the whole structure of dentistry is built, can it lay claim to be a learned profession or an important branch of the great art and science of healing."

Our grandfathers were content to expect from their dentists a few fillings and temporizing treatment until, in the natural course of time, that grim reaper, the dental forceps, had removed one by one each lone last pearl, and then the dentist made them plates. The dentist—the modern one as well as his predecessor—is up against the inexorable law that the teeth naturally atrophy as time goes on. But the modern dentist keeps us going longer.

Teeth Very Important

It is surprising, in a way, that this small part of the human body—the teeth—should have such importance that they attract a profession to care for them nearly half as large numerically as the medical profession. But a glance at history shows us how dear mankind has always held his teeth.

If a man struck out his slave's tooth Hebrew law commanded him to let him go free. This was because the teeth were the instruments of life—those by which food is eaten. "He who strikes out a man's eyes does not hinder him from living, but a most miserable death awaits the man who has all his teeth knocked out."

If a boy's teeth are close together, according to a Swiss proverb, he will stay at home; if wide apart, he will travel.

Old English folk lore has a calendar of what "will happen" to you if your teeth are pulled on certain days.

On Monday, approaching sadness; on Tuesday, legacy from a distant relative; on Wednesday, loss and shame; on Thursday, success in business; on Friday, confusion in affairs; on Saturday, discovery of a secret; on Sunday, a love quarrel.

Well Known Citizen Had Suffered from Disordered Stomach for Years. Bowels Constipated, Sluggish Liver Caused Dizzy Spells.

"For a long time my stomach had been causing trouble and had been getting worse and worse until I lost practically all desire to eat. What little nourishment I took brought on painful attacks of indigestion and the acid risings were so bad that my mouth often felt like it had been burned," said Mr. Charles L. Johnson of 299 E. Second street, Chillicothe, Ohio.

"A disorder of my liver caused frequent bilious spells and made me feel listless and miserable. My nerves became jumpy and I was able to sleep only a few hours some nights. My bowels were in a constipated condition all the time."

"I read in the papers so often how men and women all around here were receiving such fine results from these same troubles, so I decided to try Vendol, and now I am enjoying the best health I have had in years. I eat three meals a day and enjoy every one of them, for I no longer suffer with my old stomach complaints. My liver is normal, bowels are as regular as a clock and I feel full of energy. My sleep is no longer disturbed and I just feel so much stronger and better in every way that it is a real pleasure to tell others about Vendol."

Vendol is sold by all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended in this city by Hamilton & Ryan, Pythian Castle.

ANCIENT ROUTE OF MISSISSIPPI BELIEVED FOUND

NEW ORLEANS, (UP)—Tentative evidence that the Mississippi River once flowed far to the south, through land that since has fallen into the Gulf of Mexico, has been found.

Existence of an undersea channel, such as a river bed, was discovered by soundings from the U. S. Geodetic Survey ship Hydrographer. After taking on supplies here, the Hydrographer returned to the Gulf to study the phenomenon.

Recordings of coast guard experts told of a depression, one to two fathoms in depth, running east and west and 15 miles south of Terrebonne Bay and Timbalier Island. It is not far from the 10-fathom limit off the coast and is expected to extend beyond this line.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (UP)—

New York's pennant-hungry Giants, who have stolen the National league show from the pre-season favored Cubs and Cardinals, face their second crucial series within less than a week when they tangle with the Cards today in the first of two games in St. Louis.

They face it, however, with a great deal of confidence after bowling the Cubs over three out of four at Chicago.

This meeting also sets the stage for a duel between Carl Hubbell and Dizzy Dean, who have more victories than any other pitchers in the league. Dizzy has won 22, and lost 8, while Hubbell has won 20 and lost 6. Neither has worked since Sunday, but Bill Terry and Frankie Frisch may put their top hurlers in against weaker opponents in an attempt to gain an even break in the series, and keep them from each others' throat.

Manager Terry, continuing to play first base in spite of his injured knee, and Mel Ott, again were prominent in the Giants' 7 to 4 triumph in the finale with the Cubs yesterday.

Terry's single and double drove in three New York runs, while Ott banged out a double and three singles in five attempts, to pace the 12-hit attack against Curt Davis, Bill Lee, Charlie Root and Clay Bryant. Jimmy Rippie singled in the seventh to run his hitting streak to 18 games, but it came with two out and did no damage. Harry Gumbert who relieved Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons in the second inning after a downpour of rain interrupted the game for 20 minutes, chalked up his first win since July 25.

The win increased the Giants' league lead to four games over the Cardinals whose contest with the Brooklyn Dodgers was rained out in the fourth inning with the Dodgers leading 3-2. So even if the Cardinals win both games of the series, the Giants are assured of returning to the Polo Grounds with a two-game lead, and considering the way the Terry boys play ball in their Harlem backyard, they are going to be tough to dislodge, especially when the Cards and Cubs begin slitting each other's throats in their six remaining games.

TITLE IN LAST HALF OF LEAGUE

Eagles Lodge softballers won the second half championship of the city league Tuesday evening by a 6 to 2 score over the Circleville Oils. The lodge men completed the second half with only one defeat and nine games played.

Raymond Smith, who took over the hurling duties when Eddie Callahan went back to Portsmouth a couple of weeks ago, tossed for the winners, while Bill Hegge was on the hill for the losers.

It is possible there will be no more games in the second half, the playoff starting next Monday with Eagles and Circleville Oils tangling.

About Ohio Grids

Four hundred and thirty-seven schools in the Ohio High School Athletic association started drills Tuesday afternoon. The total membership of the association is 1,141. All squads have three weeks of practice before their first games, the state rule prohibiting play prior to Sept. 15. Schedules must be concluded by Nov. 28. After classes start two-day drills will be called.

Rules Uniform

Nearly all schools will follow the National Collegiate Football Code. Exceptions made for Ohio schools are:

1. Forward passes may be thrown from any place behind the line of scrimmage.
2. Additional protection will be granted the forward passer.
3. The wearing of the head-guard is compulsory.
4. On out-of-bounds plays the ball will be taken in 15 yards from the boundary.

Insurance Taken Out

Between 50 and 60 of the scholastic teams have taken out blanket football insurance for their players. The cost is $3 per player for a policy to cover the entire season. Compensation ranges from $2 for a chipped tooth or torn ligament to $250 for loss of life.

Nine Teams Unbeaten

Nine of the state's major scholastic teams completed their 1935 campaigns unbeaten and untied. The eleven who had a claim on the mythical state title and will attempt to renew their victory marches were Massillon, Sandusky, Steubenville, Hamilton, Mansfield, Ravenna, Cleveland Shaker Heights, Upper Arlington, and Ironton.

Floyd Gibbons, Vincent Lopez and Famous Guest Stars to Start New Series

WAR NEWS MAN TO BE FEATURE OF NEW AIRING

Death Valley Days to Be Moved to Friday September 4

Floyd Gibbons, famous reporter and war correspondent, music by Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, and presenting well known guest stars, is a new program that will have its premiere broadcast over a WABC-CBS network with 54 stations from coast to coast, at 9 p. m. (EST) on Saturday, October 3.

The new program marks the return of Gibbons to radio for his first regular series of broadcasts in more than a year. Currently covering the war in Spain, he plans to fly back to this country aboard the Hindenburg late in September, arriving in time to prepare some of the material gathered there for broadcasting.

He is expected to bring back a number of exciting human interest stories for broadcasting in this country when the stories can be told without being subject to the war censorship. Every week will find Gibbons back at the microphone with several new thrilling stories for the radio audience.

The musical section of these broadcasts will be provided by Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, veterans of radio since its earliest days and always favorites of the microphone audience. His theme song, "Noia," has become one of the best known in radio with his familiar interpretation having introduced hundreds of broadcasts.

On each of the programs Gibbons will present at least two and possibly three guest entertainers, who will be personalities well known to radio.

DEATH VALLEY DAYS

"Death Valley Days," oldest western drama of the air, will be heard from 7:30 to 8 p. m. EST, Friday, over the NBC-Blue network, beginning, September 4. Originally a Tuesday night show, the program later was switched to Thursdays.

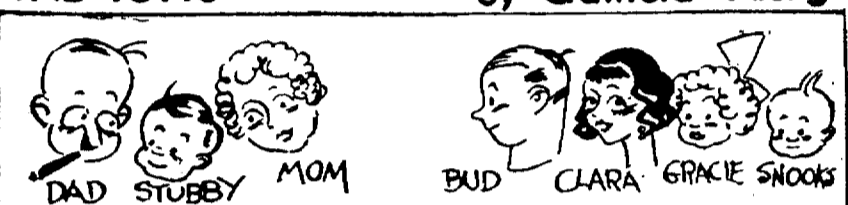

The series dramatizes pioneer life in Death Valley, that weird California waste-land 300 feet below sea level, the lowest point in the western hemisphere. Material for the program is gathered by Ruth Cornwall, noted NBC writer who each year visits the valley collecting flag-hand accounts of true adventures, later dramatized by the Old Ranger, Vernon Radcliffe, NBC production man and former actor and playwright, plays the role of the Old Ranger.

Some varieties of vines have been known to produce grapes for more than 300 years.

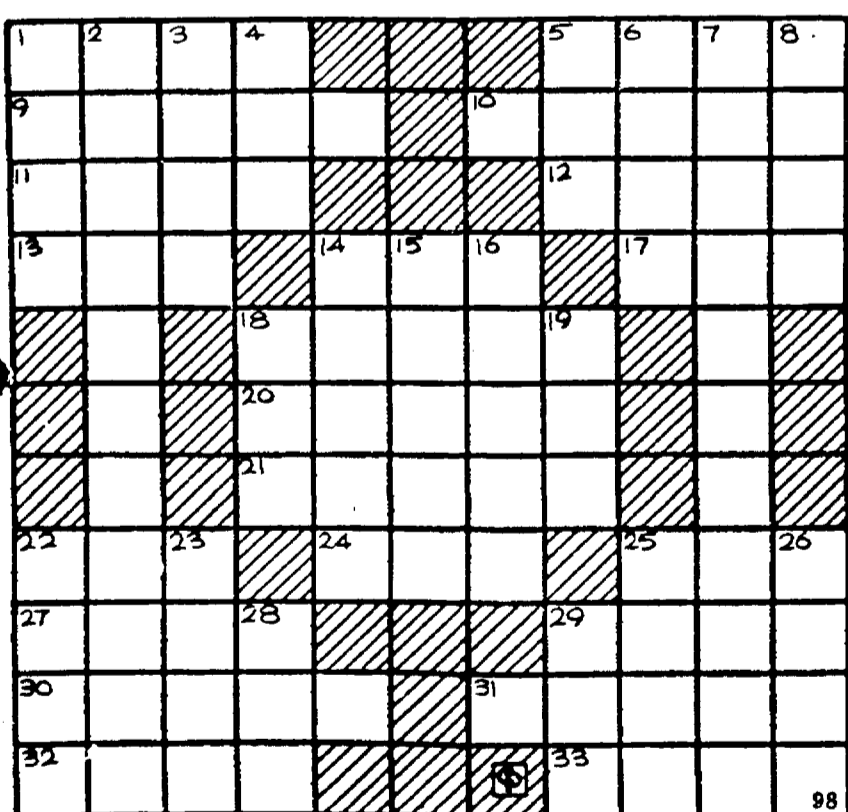

Small pieces of bread were used in place of napkins by ancient Greeks. After these bread pieces were used, they were thrown on the floor for dogs.

RETAIL MERCHANTS PLAN FALL STYLE REVUE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 14

GEORGE GRIFFITH PUT IN CHARGE OF BIG AFFAIR

Parade To Be Staged Evening of Sept. 16 Through Uptown

MANY ENTRIES SOUGHT

Any Type of Entry May Be Made, Officials Decide

Elaborate plans for Fall Style Revue Week to begin Sept. 14 were outlined Tuesday evening by the Retail Merchants' association. One of the features of the event will be a parade on Wednesday evening under the supervision of George Griffith. All merchants are invited to have exhibits in the pageant showing their latest fall merchandise. Musical organizations of Circleville and nearby towns will be asked to participate.

May Show Old Fashions

Business men recommended a division in the parade for old fashions, and suggested prizes be awarded. Details of this feature will be worked out by Mr. Griffith and announced in the near future.

Stores will remain open for inspection on the evening of the parade. Arrangements are being made with the Pumpkin Show society to have the show lights installed in the downtown district for the style event.

There is no regulation on the type of exhibits for the parade. Merchants may enter decorated trucks or automobiles, have models display their newest fashions or use any types of exhibit they desire. Joe Burns was appointed to handle association advertising for the event.

Circleville's parking problem was discussed in the meeting but merchants made no recommendation on a solution.

PRESIDENT MAY RETURN TO DESK FROM LONG TRIP

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL, Sept. 2.—(UP)—President Roosevelt may change his plans and return directly to Washington instead of Hyde Park next Sunday because of the potentialities contained in the bombing of the U. S. destroyer Kane last Sunday, it was reported today.

The president, aboard his special train, retraced an easterly course through the drought area today, en route to Des Moines and a conference tomorrow with Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, and other mid-west governors. He attended funeral services of George H. Dern, secretary of war, in Salt Lake City yesterday.

Though the president had no comment, Washington dispatches reflected official fear of some disturbing incident so long as American warships remain in Spanish waters and American nationals are in Spain. Had bombs from the Spanish plane struck the Kane, the resultant situation would have been grave.

Mr. Roosevelt kept in close touch with the capital and conditions abroad. Special telephone lines strung through an open window of his car at operating stops gave him immediate contact with the state department and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

FIVE YOUTHS LOST

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 2.—(UP)—Five Ashland youths today were believed to have drowned in Chequamegon bay when their 15-foot sail boat capsized. Discovery of the overturned boat and its cars 100 feet away led authorities to believe that its occupants, Dan Weir, 16, Eugene Sullivan, 14, Henry Mitchell, 15, John Wisen, 17, and Philip Jensen, 15, had drowned.

Another war, internationalists agree, will smash Europe. Then, to end it, the belligerents will sign a treaty of pieces.

DROUGHT CONFAB IN IOWA BRINGS 'DELICATE' TASK

Efforts Made to Keep Discussion Out of Political Race

barred from the building, there will be no posed photographs and the wing of the capitol in which the meeting will occur will be blocked off by a canvas partition across the corridor — effectively isolating the conferees.

No Speeches Allowed
In addition, there will be no public speeches or appearances and, after the initial meeting, the president will consult individually with the governor of each state.

Gov. Landon will take just as drastic precautions against permitting his visit to the Iowa capitol being turned into a political demonstration.

The Kansas governor will leave Topeka early Thursday morning by automobile — because any available train schedule would put him in Des Moines several hours before the conference starts. He will arrive over an undisclosed route only a short time before he is scheduled to sit down at the conference table and he will leave as soon as convenient after the dinner which will be given Thursday night on the President's train.

It was not even certain that the Republican nominee would arrive in time to take advantage of Herring's invitation to luncheon.

The Landon board of strategy was obviously acting to prevent any criticism that political considerations were entering their role at the conference. Gov. Landon emphasized that he would attend "as governor of Kansas."

So far as could be foreseen, the eventful moments for the public — a huge crowd was forecast because the state fair coincides with the drought conference — may come when the conferees arrive at the capitol.

Discourage Crowds

The streets will be cleared of traffic for the President's drive from his train whereas the indefinite schedule of Landon would tend to discourage crowds along his route. But the grounds of the state capitol will be open to the public and the only opportunity for a glimpse of the governor of Kansas may come when he arrives at the 53-year-old state house.

Most of the conferees will be Democrats. One of the veterans invited — Sen. George Norris of Nebraska, a Republican supporter of the president — was not expected to attend. Neither was it certain that Sen. Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, a Democrat opposed to the New Deal, would be present.

position of Puntza which was a shattered mass of wreckage, sandbags and logs caused by the constant bombardment. The government force were driven out of many trenches at the position. Loyalist Carabineros in the blockhouses, cursing fluently, sought courageously to break the advance. The Puntza redoubt has been the scene of the bloodiest fighting.

It was captured and recaptured seven times yesterday and remained in loyalist hands until this afternoon, although virtually destroyed by shells. The loyalists were fighting savagely. In retaliation for the deaths of civilians in the bombing of Irun, they executed an unknown number of rebel hostages at dawn today at Fort Guadalupe.

VATICAN PAPER DISAPPROVES OF COUGHLIN IDEAS

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 2.—(UP)——Osservatore Romano, the official Vatican newspaper, expressed disapproval today of Father Charles E. Coughlin's outspokenness in his political addresses.

Osservatore denied a report attributed to Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit, Father Coughlin's superior, saying that the Holy See fully approves his activities of Father Coughlin.

"This does not correspond with the truth and Bishop Gallagher knows only too well what the Holy See told him in this regard," Osservatore said.

"It is most evident that an orator who inveighs against persons representing the supreme social authorities, with the evident peril of upsetting among the crowd that respect which is due to authorities, sins against the elementary conventions. The unconventionality is so much greater and much more evident when the speaker is a priest."

The reference to the respect due to authorities apparently referred to Father Coughlin's speech in which he called President Roosevelt a liar.
